Wallace Charles Smith, D.Min.
Senior Minister

The Pen

Thomas L. Bowen
Minister of Fellowship and Outreach

One of the greatest preachers of the twentieth century was Dr. Howard Thurman. To this day I take refuge in his prophetic writings. As we gather on this Unity/Communion Sunday, I want to share my love for him with others that I love. Although we find ourselves in the second month of 2010, there is still a newness. There is still a profound need by many, and a desire by others for change. I hope that the words that follow as written by Dr. Thurman and shared in his book of meditations, Meditations of the Heart, will aid, enlighten and embolden you. Find your song and sing it.

I Will Sing a New Song

The old song of my spirit has wearied itself out. It has long ago been learned by heart so that now it repeats itself over and over, bringing no added joy to my days or lift to my spirit. It is a good song, measured to a rhythm to which I am bound by ties of habit and timidity of mind. The words belong to old experiences which once sprang fresh as water from a mountain crevice fed by melting snows. But my life has passed beyond to other levels where the old song is meaningless. I demand of the old song that it meet the need of present urgencies. Also, I know that the work of the old song, perfect in its place, is not for the new demand!

I will sing a new song. As difficult as it is, I must learn the new song that is capable of meeting the new need. I must fashion new words born of all the new growth of my life, my mind and my spirit. I must prepare for new melodies that have never been mine before, that all that is within me may lift my voice unto God. How I love the old familiarity of the wearied melody—how I shrink from the harsh discords of the new untried harmonies.

Teach me, my Father, that I might learn with the abandonment and enthusiasm of Jesus, the fresh new accent, the untried melody, to meet the need of the untried morrow, Thus, I may rejoice with each new day and delight my spirit in each fresh unfolding.

Condolences

Our sincere sympathy is extended to Elva Vaughan (Omega Circle) in the loss of her son, Gilman Vaughan, brother of Deaconess Carvella Beavers (King's Messengers Circle); Deaconess Judy Hall (Torch Bearers Circle) in the loss of her cousin and Sonadja Keene (Bethel Circle) in the loss of her mother, Leshelle Hicks.

Thank You Notes

Reverend Smith, Ministerial staff, Deacons, Deaconess, Circle Leaders Council, Senior and Gospel Choirs and Fellowship Circle. - There are not enough definitions in the dictionary to express my sincerest thanks for your prayers, visits, calls and cards during my recent hospitalization, which was quite unexpected. I have had several serious illnesses in the past and I'm still fighting another one, but the God I serve has always seen fit to bring me through them all. I sincerely hope that whatever God wants me to do; I'm living the life he wants me to live. One of my favorite scriptures is Philippians 4:13, "I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me." May God continue to shower Shiloh with his blessings.

Thomasina McLeish

Reverend Smith, Ministerial Staff, King's Messengers Circle, the quartet under the leadership of Thomas Tyler, Charles Randolph, Deaconess Carvella Beavers, Deacons James Grigsby and Keith Ellis, the kitchen staff and the Shiloh Church Family – the family of Douglas L. Dove will be forever grateful for all that you have done. Mere words can never convey our sincere appreciation for your expressions of sympathy. The prayers, telephone calls and donations will always remain dear to our heart. We ask for your continued prayers and we will be praying for you and the church family.

The Douglas L. Dove Family

First and foremost I give all praises to God for a successful surgery. A special thanks to Pastor Smith, Reverend Felton, Berean Circle, Deaconess Board, Gill/Waldron Sunday School Class, Gospel Choir members, Elsie Wallace, Irma Lashley and Deacon Willie Weddle for your prayers and loving support for me and my husband. ## Church School Lessons At-A-Glance

February 7, 2010 (Matthew 15:21-28) Recognized by a Canaanite Woman – A Canaanite woman approached Jesus about her demon-possessed daughter. Even though Jesus explained that He was sent to the lost sheep of Israel, He rewarded the woman's persistent faith with the healing of her daughter.

February 14, 2010 (Matthew 16:13-27) Declared by Peter – Jesus asked His disciples about His reputation. Peter identified Him as the Christ, the Son of the living God. Many people are curious about the Jesus of history – who He really is. Jesus affirmed that Peter's declaration of Jesus as the Christ, the Son of God, was a revelation by God.

February 21, 2010 (Matthew 17:1-12) Witnessed by Disciples – Jesus took Peter, James and John with Him to the top of a mountain and was transfigured (changed) before them. He encouraged them not to be afraid and instructed them not to share the experience. In reality, Peter, James and John experienced a spiritual encounter that confirmed Jesus is the Son of God.

February 28, 2010 (Matthew 26:6-13) Anointed by a Woman in Bethany – A woman poured an expensive jar of perfume on Jesus' head. The disciples were indignant and asked why she wasted so much money. Jesus told them that she had prepared His body for burial. People who truly love find ways to demonstrate that love. Such was this woman, commended by Jesus, who gave extravagantly out of her love for Jesus as Messiah.

Bigger Than a Hamburger By Ella Baker The Southern Patriot May, 1960

[After SNCC's founding conference at Shaw University in Raleigh, NC, Ella Baker wrote the following article.]

Raleigh, NC — The Student Leadership Conference made it crystal clear that current sit-ins and other demonstrations are concerned with something much bigger than a hamburger or even a giant-sized Coke.

Whatever may be the difference in approach to their goal, the Negro and white students, North and South, are seeking to rid America of the scourge of racial segregation and discrimination — not only at lunch counters, but in every aspect of life.

In reports, casual conversations, discussion groups, and speeches, the sense and the spirit of the following statement that appeared in the initial newsletter of the students at Barber-Scotia College, Concord, N.C., were re-echoed time and again:

"We want the world to know that we no longer accept the inferior position of second-class citizenship. We are willing to go to jail, be ridiculed, spat upon and even suffer physical violence to obtain First Class Citizenship."

By and large, this feeling that they have a destined date with freedom, was not limited to a drive for personal freedom, or even freedom for the Negro in the South. Repeatedly it was emphasized that the movement was concerned with the moral implications of racial discrimination for the "whole world" and the "Human Race."

This universality of approach was linked with a perceptive recognition that "it is important to keep the movement democratic and to avoid struggles for personal leadership."

It was further evident that desire for supportive cooperation from adult leaders and the adult community was also tempered by apprehension that adults might try to "capture" the student movement. The students showed willingness to be met on the basis of equality, but were intolerant of anything that smacked of manipulation or domination.

This inclination toward group-centered leadership, rather than toward a leader-centered group pattern of organization, was refreshing indeed to those of the older group who bear the scars of the battle, the frustrations and the disillusionment that come when the prophetic leader turns out to have heavy feet of clay.

However hopeful might be the signs in the direction of group-centeredness, the fact that many schools and communities, especially in the South, have not provided adequate experience for young Negroes to assume initiative and think and act independently accentuated the need for guarding the student movement against well-meaning, but nevertheless unhealthy, over-protectiveness.

Here is an opportunity for adult and youth to work together and provide genuine leadership — the development of the individual to his highest potential for the benefit of the group.

Many adults and youth characterized the Raleigh meeting as the greatest or most significant conference of our period.

Whether it lives up to this high evaluation or not will, in a large measure, be determined by the extent to which there is more effective training in and understanding of non-violent principles and practices, in group dynamics, and in the re-direction into creative channels of the normal frustrations and hostilities that result from second-class citizenship.
